Weequahic High School, where the Adults are in charge and the Students are the greatest!

Achievement is Realistic, Obtainable, & Infinite.

Dear Weequahic Graduates,

"All men are told the physical law and all laws have causes. The causes of obeying this law gives you the true effect. The true effect is the elevation of the mind. The mind is the master. Also, as the master elevates so will your senses."

The above quote is the opening paragraph of a very special passage that I keep near to my heart called, "The Physical Law." For years I have kept this passage in my mind because, it has a profound impact on my life in so many ways and has given me the ability to actually understand the value of my mind though the application of knowledge of self. Thus, I'm grateful to share this very same jewel with each of you.

This year marks a level of achievement that sets the stage for an awesome life of milestones, accomplishments, and achievements that you will all earn. Your completion of the 12th grade here at Weequahic High School is officially your first step towards the path of higher education. Not only is it your first step to destiny, it's your first step to implementing the necessary change this world needs to understand your value as a proud student of the Newark Public Schools. Your task will be tough and your journey will be rough because, along the way your quest will be challenged by many on your journey to college and career path advancements.

Today, you will prove the entire world wrong and change the negative perception and stereotype that has been placed upon all of us by the very ones who doubt our universal commitment to greatness. The adults here have told you daily to have self pride, that you are intelligent and wise, and that you must stand strong and tall regardless of whom or what because your mind is what makes you most powerful!

Now you have reached the point where you must show and prove. The college and the carer path you choose will be no easy task. However, a focused mind and a close connection to your parents and loved ones will help you persevere through all things. Always remember that our word is bond and bond is life. Proper Education Always Corrects Errors.

Intellectual Prominence, Infinite Power, Indian Pride (IP).

Congrats to the WHS Class of 2025!

Peace,

In 1997, the Weequahic High School Alumni Association was formed and today it has become one of the most successful urban public high school alumni associations in the country. We have raised over a million dollars for college scholarships and we support academic, cultural, sports-related activities at the school.

ON BEHALF OF ALL OF US WHO GRADUATED FROM THIS GREAT TEEPEE ON THE HILL, THE WEEQUAHIC HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION WISHES THE 2025 GRADUATES A BRIGHT AND PRODUCTIVE FUTURE!

A BRIEF HISTORY OF WEEQUAHIC HIGH SCHOOL – 91 YEARS OLD!

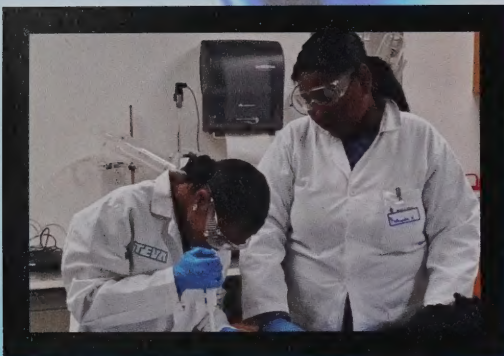

- The name “Weequahic” refers to the “head of the creek,” the school was given this name to honor Newark’s Native Americans, the Lenni Lenape part of the Delaware Tribe.
- The high school opened on September 11, 1933, with 2,056 students, and its first Principal was Max Herzberg.
- In 1934, Professor Albert Einstein sent a letter to the high school, “Thoughts on Education on American Schools in Particular,” which was published in the school newspaper and publications worldwide.
- Just inside the front doors of the school is one of the most important installations of public art in NJ: the “Enlightenment of Man,” a New Deal-era mural painted by Michael Lenson installed in 1939.
- In 1963, Weequahic ranked 1st in NJ and 56th in the nation in the number of graduates who went on to earn a Ph.D. In 1964, Weequahic had more National Merit scholars than any high school in the tri-state area.
- For many years, Weequahic offered more foreign languages (French, Spanish, Latin, German, Russian, and Hebrew) than any other high school in the city. In the 1960s, it also taught Swahili.
- Weequahic was known for its athletics. Throughout the years, Weequahic experienced great success in basketball, track, and swimming. Seymour “Swede” Masin, a 1938 graduate, was considered the best all-around athlete in the school, the city, and the state. The high school is also known for its outstanding basketball teams under the leadership of Coaches Lustig, Fein, Klurman, and Gavin.
- The 1967, the basketball ‘Dream Team’ went undefeated and became the number one team in the country.

- In 1949, Untermann Field was dedicated in honor of William M. Untermann, a Newark attorney. It became the home field for football, soccer, track and field, and baseball.
- Some of Weequahic's athletes made it to the professional ranks, notably Alvin Attles (1955), Gerry Greenspan (1959), and Dennis "Moe" Layton (1966), all became professional basketball players; Al "Bubba" Baker (1972) and Hasson Arbubakrr became professional football players; Don "Pinky" Johnson (1972) and Bo Porter coached (1990) several major league baseball teams.
- Throughout the generations, Weequahic has always had a fine music department, orchestra, and an outstanding marching band.
- Many Weequahic students served in the military. A plaque outside the auditorium memorializes 57 students who perished in World War II.
- In 1951, Eleanor Roosevelt addressed more than 1,500 students at an assembly at Weequahic. This was also the year Pulitzer Prize-winning author Philip Roth graduated from Weequahic High School.
- The ethnic/racial makeup of Weequahic students paralleled the changing demographics of the city of Newark. For the first 36 years, Weequahic was predominantly White and Jewish. For the past 50-plus years, the high school has been primarily African-American.
- The high school newspaper is the Calumet, the literary magazine is Ergo, and the yearbook is the Legend. The school's colors are Orange and Brown, and its nickname is Indians. The student governing body is the Orange and Brown Association (OBA). At one time, Weequahic had student hall monitors known as Sagamores and a student court system.

Weequahic High School Students Spread Awareness on Bloodborne Pathogens

By Raynaldine Dorelus

On February 26th, Weequahic High School's Allied Health students showcased their creativity and knowledge in an impressive demonstration aimed at educating teachers and staff about bloodborne pathogens and safety. The event, held in the school's media center, offered a platform for students to share vital information on preventing the spread of diseases while promoting health and safety practices.

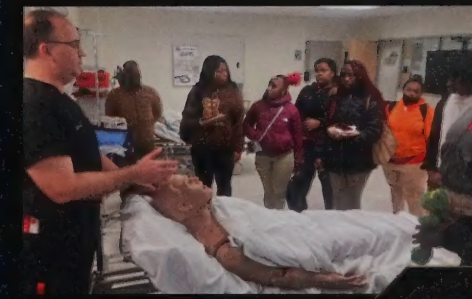

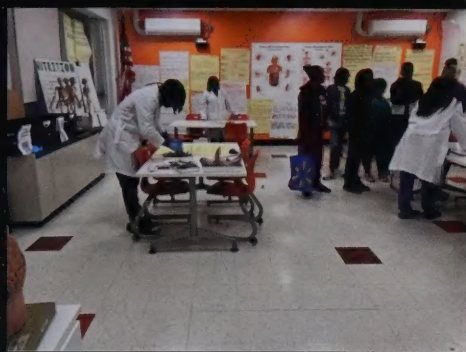

Organized by the school nurse and Allied Health professor Gustave Ado, the event covered a wide range of topics, including scientific approaches to handling emergencies, proper disposal of needles, and managing diabetic students. One crucial piece of advice shared was:

"Teachers shouldn't take a diabetic student's phone for a long period of time since they use it to monitor glucose levels."

This unique event allowed students to step into the teachers' shoes by becoming the educators for the day. Despite initial nervousness, the students displayed confidence and excellent communication skills, delivering their presentations with poise and clarity. Teachers supported them from the sidelines, offering encouraging words like, "Take your time," which helped boost the students' confidence and created a positive, safe environment.

After about 35 minutes of presenting and engaging with questions, the students wrapped up their informative session, handing the remainder of the event over to the nurse. This experience not only demonstrated the students' growing expertise in the Allied Health field but also highlighted their potential as future healthcare professionals.

The future nurses, doctors, and engineers of Weequahic High School's Allied Health program continue to make an impact, proving that they are ready to take on more insightful projects and activities in the future.
